MORNING TRAIN IN UGLY WRECK

Western Maryland Passenger Train Due here from Baltimore at 10:08 Has Two Cars Overturned Many Hurt but none Seriously.

In a railroad wreck on the Western Maryland at Intersection shortly before nine o'clock this morning two coaches of the passenger train due here at 10:08 were overturned and about twenty passengers and several members of the crew more or less painfully injured. None of them was seriously hurt, however.

The train left Lineboro at 8:44 on time and was near the small station between Lineboro and Summit, known as Intersection, when the tender suddenly left the track and overturned, carrying with it the baggage car and the smoker. The third coach did not leave the track and could be used, the wreckage being sufficiently cleared away about half past eleven to allow a train to come through.

A broken rail or spreading rails are given as possible causes of the wreck. As soon as Engineer Eichelberger realized what was occurring he threw on the brakes and brought the train to a standstill, probably preventing more serious injury to a number of the passengers. The total injured list is eleven but there were a number of others who sustained cuts and bruises whose names are not included in the injured.

Harry Gottlieb and Maurice Soles, the two young men who conduct the Boston Shoe Repairing Parlor on Chambersburg street, were among the passengers on the train and they were considerably bruised. Simon Walter, the baggage master was thrown down as his coach went over and he was badly shaken up but escaped injury. He was, until recently, employed with the East Berlin Railroad and was on duty for a week taking the place of the usual baggage master. Conductor George Maurath and brakeman Peter Gibbs were both in the smoker when the cars overturned. Mr. Maurath was bruised in the side and back and though his injuries are not considered serious he was not able to continue his run. Mr. Gibbs was not hurt.

Gottlieb and Soles, the only two Gettysburg passengers, came on through after their injuries were attended to, Soles continuing to Waynesboro where he has opened a shoe repairing shop. David Newcomer, of Hanover, was a passenger in the smoker in the smoker and received the most serious injuries his scalp being badly cut and an injury at the base of the skull causing him much pain.

Windows in the car were broken and most of the injuries came from the glass. Wood was splintered and many of the passengers were hurt from the projecting timbers. Some were thrown across the aisle against seats, others were pitched against the side of the coach and it was some time before all were got out of the cars. Fortunately there was no way in which the wreckage could catch fire and the passengers got into the open with no further danger after the train was brought to a standstill.

The passengers in the last car, many of whom were women, were much alarmed but their fears were soon calmed. The train carried more people than usual owing to its being the opening day of the York fair and that some were not hurt badly is surprising.

Realizing that a number would require medical attention physicians were summoned and Doctors Alleman, Meisenholder Stick and Keagy responded from Hanover and Doctor Sterner, of Porters. They gave aid, washing out the wounds and binding up the passengers and most were able to proceed with their journey after the wreckage was sufficiently cleared to allow a train to go through.

The wildest reports followed the receipt of the first meagre information about the wreck and Gettysburg and Hanover were both filled with rumors of a number being killed. The total number was supposed to be eight while the number of those hurt mounted considerably higher. There was much relief here when it was known that no one from Gettysburg was badly hurt and that the extent of the wreck was not so large as at first reported.

HOUGH-LANTZ

Harry D. Hough, of Taneytown, Md., and Miss Alice E. Lantz, of Emmitsburg Md., were married Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. L. Dow Ott.

MAY HAVE ALL YEAR MARKET

Idea of Having One Market Day a Week throughout the Winter Months is Advanced and Finds Much Favor. Potatoes Drop.

The market stall holders are now talking of a plan launched by Market Master Miller to have the local institution conducted once a week throughout the entire winter. Last year the market closed on December 13 and under ordinary circumstances it is probable that this year would see its last day about the same time.

The plan of holding market one day in the week meets with considerable favor as it is claimed that stored apples, cabbage, potatoes and other vegetables could be brought in while the products of the country "butterings" always found favor at the late fall market days last year. Market men seem to be favorably inclined toward the proposition and town people who have been told of the idea seem to think that it might be a good plan.

The Tuesday market saw less wagons than usual but a good assortment of fruits and vegetables. Potatoes sold at a dollar a bushel. Some sweet corn was offered at from ten to fifteen cents a dozen and there was the customary display of other seasonal things. The market men found traveling chilly on their way to Gettysburg.

FOUNTAIN DALE

Fountain Dale, Oct. 3.—Glen Barton who is employed in Washington, D. C., has returned after a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Cora Harbaugh and brother, Wilbur, spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Edward Long, of Emmitsburg, Md.

Miss Minnie Chase, of Blue Ridge, Summit, visited Mrs. Charles Martin on Saturday and Sunday.

Those who spent Sunday at the home of W. C. Tresler, were Rev. Arthur Billow, Mr. and Mrs. Jones and daughter, Helen, Mr. Anthony, Harry John, Luther Tresler and Add Warner, all of Waynesboro, and Miss Blanche Alexander, of Fountain Dale.

Mrs. Charles Shover and children, of Monterey, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Warren, also Mrs. William Warren and family, of Zora.

Misses Hazel Tresler and Mable Cline attended the Sabbath School convention in Gettysburg on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Tresler and sons, Glen and Louis, spent Sunday with S. H. Duffey and family.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James McIntire, a son.

Miss Pearl McCreaf started on her journey to Montana, where she will be employed as teacher. Miss Violet Meals will teach the school which Miss McCreaf resigned.

START APPLE PICKING

Apple picking was started in many of the orchards of the county today and for several weeks little else will occupy the attention of the orchardists and other residents of the upper end of the county. It requires a small army of men to take care of the work of picking and packing the crop which, as is well known, is much larger this year than ever before. It is expected that the work would be started on Monday but the rain prevented this and the day's delay caused little inconvenience. The apples brought good prices despite the big crop all over the country and the growers are much gratified to find how perfect their fruit is.

TOPTON DAY A BIG ONE

Saturday, October 14, will be Tipton Day and as usual thousands of Pennsylvanians from the Berks County section will come to Gettysburg on the excursion run over the Reading by the Lutheran Orphans' School at Tipton. Advance reports say that the number this year will be unusually large and on the same day several excursions are expected from New Jersey so that the closing excursion day of 1911 will likely come close to breaking records.

FARM wanted. Owing to the death of my landlord, Martin S. Witmer, and the sale of his farm, the undersigned desires to lease a good property on the shares. Good stock and plenty of help. J. A. Meales, Gettysburg R. D. 12.

IT is my desire to extend to the voters of Adams County, my sincere thanks for the prestige bestowed in my behalf at the primaries, September 30th. T. Marshall Mehring.

SAUER kraut for sale at the Gettysburg Department Store.

FALL and winter opening of millinery, Saturday, October 7th. A city trimmer. Your patronage solicited. Mrs. J. W. Webb, Bendersville.

HOT roasted chestnuts for sale at Pettie Brothers, Chambersburg street.

REED MURDER TRIAL CHANGE

Should New Trial be Granted in Mont Alto Murder Case it is Possible that Adams County May be Chosen on Change of Venue.

There is a remote possibility that Adams County may have a murder trial through the case against William Reed recently found guilty of first degree murder in Franklin County Court. It will be recalled that Reed shot and killed Sarah Mathna at the Forestry Academy at Mont Alto.

In the Chambersburg Valley Spirit Saturday evening D. A. Orr continued his running notes on the William Reed murder case. He deals with how Reed will face death on the gallows, presuming that he will be sentenced to death.

Counsel for Reed censured the publication of the article, and one of them stated to a reporter that if a new trial is granted, the defense will ask for a change of venue, a trial in another county. This will be done on the score that this article has prejudiced public sentiment.

District Attorney Long of Franklin County stated that he would resist the change of venue if a new trial is granted.

Should a new trial and change of venue be granted Adams or Cumberland County would probably be chosen for the trial.

ARENDTSVILLE

Arendtsville, Oct. 3.—The late planted potatoes are turning out fairly well. Samuel Dunlap, of Menallen township, raised over 800 bushels from four acres planted. Joseph Taylor's crop was over 500 bushels and quite a number of others report from 150 to 300 bushels.

The sweet potato crop is reported excellent in this section. Among a lot that Layton H. Rice, of this place, raised in his lot, the largest weighed 5 1/2 pounds.

Picking and packing apples makes a busy time here now and the fruit is large and perfect.

Rev. D. I. Camp and wife and Miss Edith M. Wolf, of Spring Run, Franklin County, were recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Tresler.

Robert B. Myers, proprietor of the Arendtsville Roller Mill, is now supplying his many customers with first class new corn meal made from new corn, kiln dried.

Messrs. A. I. Weidner and Arthur Roberts spent several days at the Pomona Grange Association held in New York City last week.

Mrs. A. Laura Pettis is spending a few days in Philadelphia this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lamberson, of Tremont, Schuylkill county, are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Hess, near this place.

Harry H. Warren has just finished a nice lawn in front of his residence.

LAWRENCE-SMITH

Albert Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence, of Irishtown, and Miss Cecelia Smith, of New Oxford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Smith, of Gettysburg, were married at 7 o'clock Sunday evening in the rectory of Conewago Chapel by Rev. Germanus Kohl. They were attended by Paul Lawrence and Miss Margaret Lawrence, brother and sister of the groom.

The groom is a blacksmith by trade and is a well known amateur base ball player, having played on the fast New Oxford team several years ago, and other teams in this section. The bride has made her home in New Oxford, where she was employed for some time past.

THE GIRL AND THE TRAMP

In the coming of The Girl and the Tramp to the Wizard Theatre, Monday, October 9, where this attraction opens an engagement we, have one of the very best comedy dramas of the season, built for laughing purposes and with a strong story of heart interest and with a cast of carefully selected artists. The production is complete in every detail.

LISTEN: Washington Camp 414 P. O. S. of A., of Gettysburg, will run their annual excursion to Baltimore, October 28th, 1911.

FOR SALE: double heater coal stove, good as new, at half price. J. I. Heretier, R. D. 4.

The party who took the spring seat from the station in Biglerville had better return it and save cost as he is known. C. B. Gettier.

TO my friends and Democratic voters of Adams County, I herewith extend to you my utmost thanks and appreciation for your influence and behalf in my support at the primaries, September 30. Oliver J. Boston.

TO HOLD FIRST TEACHERS' RALLY

Arendtsville Place of Holding First of this Year's Meetings of the County School Teachers. Prominent Speakers.

The first of this year's series of educational rallies held by the teachers of the Adams County public schools will take place at Arendtsville on Friday evening and Saturday, October 13 and 14. County Superintendent Roth has arranged for a program of value and interest and it is believed that the sessions will be generally attended by the teachers of the county.

The evening session on Friday will be more particularly for the citizens and teachers of Arendtsville and the adjacent districts. The Saturday sessions are for all the teachers of the county who can arrange to attend and all who do go to Arendtsville for the day will be entertained in the homes of the residents of that town.

Professor L. E. McGinness, of Steelton, superintendent of the public schools of that town for the past thirty five years has been engaged as one of the speakers and Professor J. K. Stewart, professor of Latin and Greek in the Cumberland Valley State Normal School at Shippensburg will also address the meetings.

Prof. Roy D. Knouse, of Arendtsville, has charge of the local arrangements for the rally and all teachers who expect to attend are asked to notify him of such intention.

Hartman, teacher.

DAVID S. FORNEY

David S. Forney, a native of Gettysburg, died at his home in Pulaski, Virginia, on Monday night, aged 83 years.

Mr. Forney was born in Gettysburg in 1828, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Forney. He spent his youth and young manhood here and then went south where he later became interested in mining. In 1907 he moved back to Gettysburg and occupied the home on Seminary Ridge which he purchased from Mrs. J. O. Blocher and is now occupied by Dr. Sterling Valentine. He remained here for two years when he returned with his family to Pulaski, Virginia.

He leaves his wife and four children all at home, Misses Elsie, Mabel, and Josephine Forney and Samuel Forney.

The body will be brought to Gettysburg Wednesday morning arriving here at 8:42 over the Western Maryland. Funeral from the Church of the Prince of Peace at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

RICE Brothers Produce Company will buy all varieties of fall and winter apples by the hundred, brought in loose. They must be ripe and first class apples.

SINGING classes will be organized as follows: Bender's church Oct. 4, 7:45 p. m.; Flohr's church Oct. 5, 7:30 p. m.; Arendtsville Oct. 6, 7:30 p. m. I. L. Taylor, instructor.

FOR SALE: property in Fairfield on Main street. Possession given November 1st. Samuel Brown.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town. People Visiting here and those Sojourning Elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmer Musselman, of Baltimore street, have gone to Atlantic City for several days.

Robert E. Sherfy, of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Raphael Sherfy, formerly of Gettysburg, but now of Washington, are spending several weeks with relatives here.

Miss Blanche Klinger who has been spending several months in Hazleton is at her home on Baltimore street for several days.

Miss Anna Williams has returned to Harrisburg after a visit of a week at the home of Howard C. Hartley on Carlisle street.

Rev. H. C. Alleman, of Seminary Ridge, is spending the week in Philadelphia and Lebanon.

Mrs. Wood has returned to Washington after spending the summer in Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Warren, of Chambersburg street, have gone to Mansfield, Ohio, where they were summoned by the illness of Mrs. Warren's sister, Mrs. Daniel Hoffman.

C. L. Eicholtz, of New Oxford, was a business visitor in Gettysburg today.

J. Watson Dickson, of Baltimore St., critically ill at the York hospital.

DELAY ON FEDERAL BUILDING

Work on the federal building has been delayed for several days on account of grade matters. Some days ago the grade at the new building was up for discussion before Council as the Pratt survey makes it considerably lower than at present. Council modified the Pratt grade to what is about the present grade and the drawings and advice were furnished the supervising architect at Washington. Now it appears that Council's figures and those of the office at Washington differ by several inches and the work has been delayed on that account. George M. Detrick, of Chambersburg, the inspector, was here on Monday afternoon and met Council about the matter. It is expected that it will be adjusted soon as Mr. Fantini, who is in charge, is anxious to hurry the work along.

TO START CONCRETE WORK

Work on the concrete curbs authorized by the town council will be started this week, the necessary preliminary preparations for the Chambersburg street stretch having been made on Monday. At some places the new curb will be somewhat higher than the present pavements but after pavements are made to conform, the entire appearance of the stretch will be improved. This obviates all grade disputes, also, and the extension of the work will probably be carried on next year. The steel for the curbs in Centre Square has been ordered and this work which is to be done under supervision of the Highway Committee of Council will be started as quickly as possible so as to be completed before winter weather commences.

ANOTHER BUSY SUNDAY

On next Sunday two excursions will be run to Gettysburg, the one by the Central Railroad of New Jersey from Newark and vicinity and the other by the Pennsylvania from Altoona and that section. The New Jersey excursion is scheduled to leave Newark at 1:30 a. m. and will likely arrive in Gettysburg at half past eight or nine. The tourists will leave here about three o'clock in the afternoon for the return trip home. A Pennsylvania Railroad excursion is booked for Saturday of this week and these will likely wind up the season with the exception of Tipton Day, note of which appears elsewhere.

AFTER TAKING FREE SAMPLE
It will be welcome news to dyspeptics to learn of a remedy that, in the opinion of thousands, is an absolute cure for indigestion and all forms of stomach trouble, and, better still, it is guaranteed to do so. The remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
We all know the value of pure pepsin in indigestion, and add to this some exceptional laxative ingredients and you have a truly wonderful remedy. Mr. T. W. Worthy of Forsythe, Ga., got to the point where he could not even eat or digest vegetables and after many years of seeking he found the cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Rudy Kasper of Moline, Ill., was in the same bad predicament with his stomach, took Syrup Pepsin and is now cured.
Special Agent, People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.
Hundreds of others would gladly testify.
It is a guaranteed cure for indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach and similar complaints. A bottle can be had at any drug store for fifty cents or a dollar, but if you wish to make a test of it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will supply a free sample bottle, sent direct to your address. You will soon admit that you have found something to replace salts, cathartics, breath perfumes and other temporary reliefs. Syrup Pepsin will cure you permanently.

Her Hair Grew
That's Why a Thankful Woman Recommends Parisian Sage.
The People's Drug Store will sell you a fifty cent bottle of PARISIAN SAGE and guarantee it to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back. It's a delightful hair dressing that makes hair lustrous and fascinating.
In the spring I was recovering from a severe case of erysipelas, which left me virtually bald on the front of my head and next to my ears. The hair kept coming out rapidly and nothing I used stopped my getting entirely bald, until I used two bottles of PARISIAN SAGE. This tonic made my hair start to grow in and, in fact, grew me a good fair amount of hair, and has entirely stopped my hair falling out.
It is with pleasure that I give a public recommendation to PARISIAN SAGE, which I know is a wonder. Mrs. Ella Gilchrist, W. Pitt St., Bedford, Pa.

NEEDS MAN WITH "SAND"
Dr. Wiley Says That's the Kind Needed to Enforce Pure Food Laws.
New York, Oct. 3.—"What we need in this country is some one with sand enough in his craw to enforce the pure food laws and drive every adulterer and quack out of business."
In this crisp language Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, food expert of the department of agriculture, concluded an interview with a reporter. Dr. Wiley had just finished an address before the pure food and drug department of the National Civic Federation, in session at 203 Broadway. He spoke in favor of a national board of health, with its head a cabinet officer, and then said:
"I look forward to the time when it will be possible to so enforce the pure food and drug laws that the health of everyone in the community would be safeguarded."
"What I mean," he explained, "is that we should have someone at the head of this proposed national department of health with sand in his craw—some one who has the courage to go ahead and do what is right, instead of keeping his ear to the ground, waiting for public opinion to dictate his course. He should have sand enough in his craw to act on his own initiative and see that adulteration, the short weight men, and those who put drugs in food stuffs are driven out of business. The proposed national board of health with such a man at its head would serve such a purpose, and the bills providing for it are now pending before congress."

MRS. ROOSEVELT SLIGHTLY HURT
Wife of Former President Was Thrown From Horse.
Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is compelled to keep in the house by injuries received Saturday, when she was thrown from her saddle horse.
The mishap occurred on the road between Oyster Bay and Sagamore Hill. Mrs. Roosevelt was riding with Colonel Roosevelt and their son, Archie. Something startled the mount of Mrs. Roosevelt, which reared and threw her. She struck heavily on her head and shoulders. Her foot was caught in the stirrup, but she was not dragged, as her husband and her son had the horse by the head almost before its fore feet hit the ground. They quickly released her from her perilous position.
Mrs. Roosevelt was taken home unconscious. She is said to be recovering rapidly.

HITCHED WIFE TO PLOW
Brutal Ohio Farmer Gets Ninety Days In Workhouse.
Lisbon, O., Oct. 3.—For hitching his wife to a plow and beating her because she couldn't pull it, Jacob Zimmerman, a farmer of Wellsville, was sent to the workhouse for a term of ninety days.
Zimmerman, who is accounted by his neighbors as well-to-do, often quarreled with his wife. After a quarrel he seized her and dragged her to a field. With pieces of rope he hitched her to the implement and then stood back of her with a whip and ordered her to pull the plow.
The frightened woman was unable to budge it and he lashed her unmercifully. Neighbors heard her screams and went to her rescue. Zimmerman was taken to court and quickly sentenced.

RESCUE ENTOMBED MINERS
Fourteen Men Saved After Being Imprisoned 84 Hours.
Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 3.—The fourteen men who were entombed at the Shakespeare mine, on Dome creek, were rescued none the worse for their confinement of eighty-four hours.
A drill hole through which they had been provisioned was enlarged by thawing until it was big enough to permit the body of a man to pass. Then the imprisoned miners were pulled up, one after another, to the surface of the ground, 1274 feet above.

Coffee Cakes Advance Price.
New York, Oct. 3.—Coffee at two cents a cup is a thing of the past in New York. Every coffee house and restaurant on the east side and other quarters of the city where the drink is sold to the poor put the price up to three cents. The high price of sugar and coffee is the reason for the advance.

Weather Forecast.
Fair today; cloudy and rain to night; moderate winds.
Rather Stiff.
"That is a rather stiff assertion," said Senator Curtis at a dinner in Washington of a reciprocity argument.
"That, in fact, reminds me of one of our Kansas stories."
"What is that tall chimney for?" said a visitor to Kansas, pointing to a factory.
"Is somebody putting up a factory in this lonely quarter?"
"No," was the reply. "That's just Joe Miller's well. Cyclone turned her inside out."—Washington Star.

GERMANY SEEKS TO END WAR
Acts as Mediator Between Italy and Turkey.
Italian Admiral Ordered to Postpone Bombardment During Negotiations. Rumors of Naval Engagement.
Rome, Oct. 3.—It is reported that on Saturday Admiral Aubrey was suddenly ordered to postpone the bombardment of Tripoli, as there were signs of a possibility of reaching an understanding with Turkey through the intervention of certain powers, thus avoiding a continuation of the war.
This report may explain the conflicting reports regarding the action of the Italians at Tripoli. The best information has been that the bombardment by the fleet was set for late Saturday. A dispatch from Tripoli received Saturday night said that the Italian fleet opened fire on the ports that morning, but that the firing ceased almost immediately.
An earlier dispatch had stated that the bombardment was begun at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Refugees arriving at Malta said Tripoli had not been bombarded or invaded up to the time that their vessel sailed at 11 o'clock Saturday night.
Germany's attempt at mediation is regarded as promising success, and in the light of this, the apparent delay in Tripolitan operations assumes considerable significance.
Germany to Try For Peace.
It was stated at the German foreign office that although no offer of mediation had been made, the German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, was already working actively at the Turkish capital, seeking to effect a peaceful settlement between Italy and Turkey.
The German ambassador in an audience with the sultan handed the sultan's appeal for mediation. After expressing feelings of real friendship and veneration for the sultan, the emperor says that in the interests of humanity he had instructed the ambassador to make efforts looking to intervention, but isolated German action, unsupported by other powers, would have no effect. In deference to the sultan's wishes, however, he would make another proposal for mediation, and also submit a similar suggestion to the other powers.
Beyond the statement that the sultan was pleased with the emperor's message no details of his majesty's response can be ascertained officially, but it is believed to contain assurances that Germany will continue her efforts at mediation in Rome. The reports from Constantinople that the ambassador also presented Italian proposals for peace are untrue, or rather, according to the German foreign office, "premature," indicating that such proposals are expected as soon as the occupation of the Tripolitan coast has been effected.
The following Rome dispatch, dated Oct. 1, was sent to a French news agency:
"A telegram from Constantinople to the Tribune says that all the consuls at the Dardanelles have telegraphed that a naval battle is going on in the straits. Reports of guns are heard as far as the Bosphorus."
The same agency sent out a Rome dispatch dated Oct. 2, saying: "News of the destruction of the Turkish fleet seems to be confirmed."
A correspondent at Malta telegraphs this message:
"I am informed by one of the crew of the British cruiser Aboukir, which has arrived here, that the vessel received a wireless dispatch stating that Tripoli had been occupied by the Italians."
60,000 Arabs Aid Turks.
Malta, Oct. 3.—Word just received from Tripoli says that the Turks and Arabs are entrenching behind the city. Sixty thousand Arabs, said to be armed with Mausers, hold a strong position fifty miles behind the town, in a country which is an excellent natural stronghold. An advance guard is stationed twenty miles from Tripoli. The Turkish garrison has left the forts.

LYNCHING DEFENDANT QUICKLY ACQUITTED
Joseph Bostick Freed to Turn State's Evidence.
West Chester, Pa., Oct. 3.—Trials of the men and boys charged with murder in connection with the lynching of Zach Walker in Coatesville began here and the town is crowded with people from all parts of the county, many being women.
Only three defendants are scheduled for trial just at present—Joseph Schwartz, Norman Price and Joseph Bostick. District Attorney Gawthrop is being assisted by Deputy Attorney General Cunningham as representative of the state.
Bostick was the first defendant called, and a jury was quickly empaneled. By direction of the court a verdict of not guilty was brought from the box, as Bostick is to be used as a witness in other cases.
Joseph Schwartz was then placed on trial. As only eight jurors had been chosen out of the sixty-two talesmen examined, Judge Hemphill ordered the court room doors locked and served subpoenas on spectators. Four proved acceptable and the jury was sworn in.
AIDS WAR ON COAL TRUST
Wicksham Asks Supreme Court to Set Aside Decision.
Washington, Oct. 3.—New York city's big anthracite coal bill of $70,000,000 for 1911-1912 is involved in a lengthy brief filed in the United States supreme court by Attorney General Wicksham and his special assistants, James C. McReynolds and G. Carroll Todd.
The government has appealed to the highest court from a decision favorable to the coal trust, which was handed down Dec. 29, 1910, by the United States circuit court in the eastern district of Pennsylvania.
At a time when tidewater coal is at the maximum price of $5.50 a ton wholesale, the government seeks to smash the coal combine as a "conspiracy in restraint of trade."
The railroads attacked are the Philadelphia & Reading, Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Erie Railroad company and the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad company, besides seven coal companies owned by these railroads, and more than a score of corporations and firms who have entered into contracts with the same railroads for the output of the anthracite mines.

20 Drown When Steamers Collide.
London, Oct. 3.—The British steamer Hatfield, from Huelva, Spain, for Rotterdam, was in collision with the British steamer Glasgow, from Rotterdam for Dundee, and sank. All the members of the Hatfield's crew, numbering twenty men, were drowned. The Glasgow was picked up by another steamer and towed into the harbor at Dover.
Bear Season Opens.
Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 3.—The bear season in Pennsylvania opened officially and the shooting of Bruin will be legal until Jan. 1. Under the new state law no traps may be used. The season for woodcock is also open and will run until Dec. 1. Not more than ten may be shot in a day.

SYSTEM NEEDED FOR FARM FLOCKS.
Uncle Sam's chief poultry asset is the farm flock, and some government smart aleck gives it a knock by saying that the average farm hen lays but sixty eggs per year.
If nothing good came out of Nazareth, how about poultry statistics from Washington? The farm Biddy does a better egg stunt—accurate egg records from Uncle Sam's 5,000,000 farm flocks will prove it—but if the farm hen on some farms does not reach her maximum it is not generally because she is a mongrel mutt, but because of lack of system.
By system we do not refer to the gold brick bonanza books, by which one is able to become rich quick from four hens on a lot 6 by 10, but we speak of scientific, sensible, natural methods, by the application of which a flock pays, and pays the maximum.
On many farms there are no special breeding pens, where the best producers are penned to beget their kind, but eggs for hatching are taken from the general flock. These flocks often consist of old and young, mature and immature fowls. By such a hit or miss method a strain from best layers cannot be built up. With no selection there can be no improvement. With a mixed up flock one cannot expect but their like. Stamina, egg production, uniform bountiful market carcasses, come from selected thoroughbred breeders bred straight.
On some farms all the eggs are not found on the day laid. Hens lay in any old place; hence the bad reputation of the haymow egg and the slander that farmers by careless nesting and handling cause the rots and spots. We are not knocking the farmer here, but simply say that some farmers should control their hens better, should have better nesting facilities, for tons of eggs are lost in hidden nests, and many are spoiled for table and hatching because they lie in the heat. Some farmers still stick to corn the year around. This is not egg food, but fattener and not the best fattener at that.
There is need for the study of content tables and formulation of feeds to suit the needs of the fowl for the purpose in view, so that fowls may be finely finished for market or winter eggs may be more plentiful on some farms.
As to housing, there is general improvement in poultry house construction. Some farmers have yet to learn that a henhouse is not just for roosting, but that it should be a light, dry, clean, roomy, comfortable, well ventilated hen home, a place for sleeping, sunning, dusting, eating and exercising to bring those high priced winter eggs and with the yards a comfortable place of confinement for hens while crops are growing.

DON'TS.
Don't fail to spray mother hen's quarters often for crawlers.
Don't preserve eggs that are over a day old, and keep the water glass in a cool place.
Don't ship eggs away when it costs less money and trouble to secure a higher priced private trade at home.
Don't neglect to flavor the mash with a reasonable amount of salt and keep a block of rock salt in the pigeon loft.
Don't go crazy when a hen louse jays rides on your bald top. Think of poor Biddy when John Bughouse is on the job.
Don't let the blood drip on the feathers while dry picking and always keep white feathers separate, as they command the best price.
Don't fail to dress poultry in the style your market demands. To get and hold good trade you must cater to its whims and throw in some extra for good measure.
Don't dress fowls in a place unscreened from flies. One blowfly can spoil a whole shipment. One maggot may chase away your best and most sensible customer.

HALTS EPIDEMIC IN AUSTIN RUINS

State Health Department in Charge of Rescue Work.

DEAD WILL REACH 150

Twenty-two Persons Rescued From the Ruins—Three Bodies Found
Twenty-seven Miles From Town.

Austin, Pa., Oct. 3.—A state of hysteria, bordering on madness, reigns in Austin. The people of the town, who worked with a determination when there was hope for the recovery of wives and children and relatives still alive, accepted the initiative of the state with reluctance and in sullenness.

They wanted to continue the work of recovery and tore away at the debris in madness, but the state officials insisted on a systematic search of the ruins to prevent any form of an epidemic.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, state health commissioner, assumed definite charge of operations. A force of 300 men, gathered in the neighboring towns of Emporium, Pa.; Keating Summit, Pa.; Port Alleghe, Pa., and Corning, N. Y., went to work under definite orders and under the supervision of sanitary engineers, and a determined fight is being made against an outbreak of pestilence.

The work of rescue, given a fresh impetus, was not in vain, for a living man was found buried under hundreds of tons of wreckage. He was taken out and carried to the hospital, where it was said that he will recover. He had been buried for nearly forty-eight hours.

Dr. Dixon announced that the relief rescue work had been systematized and twenty-two persons rescued from the ruins.

The state police have arrested ten persons, charged with pillaging in the ruins. Fifty-five state police from the Pottsville and Wilkes-Barre barracks are on the ground assisting in patrolling and in searching the ruins.

Dead in Austin 150 at Most.

The number of dead in Austin itself will not exceed 150, if it reaches that figure. The new estimate of the number of dead is based on official figures. There are twenty-four identified bodies in the improvised morgue and two unidentified bodies.

A census made showed eighty-six persons apparently missing. This would make the total death list in Austin alone 110. However, it is admitted by the townspeople themselves that the census may be erroneous.

Families are widely scattered and some dismantled houses have not even been visited by their owners since the flood. This being the case, the number of missing is probably greater than the census shows, but the actual figures will not be known positively until all the debris is cleared away two weeks hence.

In addition to the dead in Austin three bodies have been found in Costello, three miles below. One was that of a Mrs. Peaseley, the other two those of a man and a woman who are not identified.

Three bodies have been picked up at Sinnemahoning, twenty-seven miles below Austin, and such grave fears are entertained as to the fate of those who lived in the farming settlements of the valley, now completely shut off, that the state authorities dispatched an engineer on foot down the line of what was formerly the railroad. His instructions are to make his way as best he can and to make a report when he is able.

"This town will never be rebuilt; it is not worth it," said one of the merchants of the town. "The mill which gave a livelihood to the greater part of the population is destroyed and we are sure it will not be rebuilt. Only a short time ago the Goodyear Lumber company closed its plant, and at that time many people moved away. Now, with the one big industry of the place gone, and the people without homes compelled to move, there seems no possibility of success, and consequently no chance of rebuilding. Austin, as a town of any size, will not exist in the future."

This statement is corroborated by the general attitude of the people. Hundreds have already left the place, taking the few trappings they saved from the general wreck and making for the homes of friends and relatives far away. Every train out of Austin carried scores of refugees.

The public school house, which is located on the side of the Goodyear mountain, above the flood line, proved inadequate, and two residences, that had been unoccupied before the flood, were taken over.

The bodies lay two deep in some parts of the school building, when the sanitary officials interfered and ordered that they be spread out. Investigation showed that more than 100 bodies had been taken out and that the school house was entirely too small for that number. Some were ordered moved to the empty residences, and the bodies taken out later in the day were taken to that place.

TAFT AND BRYAN MEET AT BANQUET

Audience Cheers as They Shake Hands.

Hastings, Neb., Oct. 3.—To phrase in President Taft's own words, they "dug roses over the party wall" in Lincoln, and while a Nebraska audience cheered frantically, Mr. Taft clasped hands over a luncheon table with William J. Bryan.

The luncheon was given in the president's honor by the Commercial club, of Lincoln, and Mr. Bryan sat at the president's right and offered the toast that welcomed him to the city. It was a typical bit of Bryan oratory, and at the end the "peerless leader" lugged in a mention of his local option fight by requesting the banquet to fill their glasses "with the beverage upon which the almighty had set the seal of his approval and drink a toast to President Taft."

The president replied, speaking of Mr. Bryan as Lincoln's most distinguished citizen: "I have had occasion to say in times past," concluded the president, "that there were no roses so beautiful as those that grow over the party wall, and to be received by Mr. Bryan at this time is to me a great pleasure which I must express."

The banqueters cheered lustily as the peerless leader arose to thank the president and to clasp his hand.

Governor Aldrich, of Nebraska, introduced the president for his principal address at Lincoln. The president spoke on peace, and showed considerable contempt toward the attitude of several senators who profess a desire to use arbitration to wipe out wars and then shrink at the prospects of binding this country to abide by the verdict of an arbitration board. Said he:

"We are big enough even if we should be insulted by anybody to do just what a great strong man does when he is insulted under conditions where he can restrain himself at all. He holds himself in and says 'I am a greater man because I can resist the temptation to lick your pusillanimous body.'"

Cromwell Dixon Drops 100 Feet in Aeroplane.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 3.—Cromwell Dixon, who flew across the Rocky mountains last Saturday, fell 100 feet at the Interstate Fair grounds here and received injuries which caused his death.

Caught by an adverse current of air, Dixon's machine turned on its side and plunged into a rocky railroad cut. While falling Dixon pluckily tried to right his aeroplane and shouted to the spectators:

"Here I go; here I go."

He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to a hospital, where it was found that his skull was fractured, his right leg broken and his collarbone shattered. He died in half an hour.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 3.—It became known that the cemetery committee of the Richmond city council, in secret session a week ago, took a special action to bury the body of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., to bury his body in the Maury cemetery in Richmond if he is electrocuted on Nov. 24 for the murder of his wife.

The Beattie family lives in South Richmond, but their burial plot is in the Richmond cemetery, and there is a city ordinance which prohibits the burial of a non-resident there.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY DIES SUDDENLY

Ruptured Blood Vessel in Brain
Causes Death in New York.

FALLS ON THE SIDEWALK

Noted Sea Fighter and Hero of Santiago Passes Away Before Medical Aid Can Reach Him.

New York, Oct. 3.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, retired, fell in Forty-fourth street, just west of Fifth avenue, and died very soon after in the arms of Herman Snyder, a teacher of physical culture.

A ruptured blood vessel in the brain had caused him to pitch forward, his forehead striking the curb. A fractured skull undoubtedly hastened his death, the doctors said. He died before medical aid could reach him.

Admiral Schley had been out of town over Sunday and on his return had gone to the New York Yacht club on West Forty-fourth street. After a short stay at the club Admiral Schley left the club house and started to walk along Forty-fourth street toward Fifth avenue, when he was taken suddenly ill. A hurry call was sent for physicians and an ambulance, but before aid could reach him the admiral was dead.

As Admiral Schley walked along the street a chauffeur of a taxicab, who stood alongside the curb, bowed to him and then turned to a fellow chauffeur and remarked how well the admiral was looking. Near the Berkeley theater Admiral Schley turned across the street, and as he stepped up on the curb staggered and fell.

Several persons rushed to his aid, and traffic policemen sent in a hurry call for physicians and an ambulance. When the ambulance arrived physicians said that Admiral Schley was dead. The body was placed in the ambulance and driven away.

His Career in the Navy.

Admiral Winfield Scott Schley was born in 1839 of one of the best Maryland families. He received his appointment as naval cadet in 1856, and was graduated from Annapolis with honor. He fought on board the private Potomac all during the campaign under Grant which led to the capture of Port Hudson. Schley was made lieutenant commander in 1862, and was placed in command of the steam gunboat Wateree. He was at various times stationed in the Pacific, Asiatic and South Atlantic waters, and also taught at the naval academy. He was raised to the rank of commander June 10, 1874, and in 1877 and 1878 was in command of the third rate Essex. From 1880 to 1883 he was lighthouse inspector.

It was as the commander of the expedition that rescued the survivors of the unfortunate Greeley expedition that Schley's name became known throughout the civilized world. When the United States government got ready a relief expedition to send north, Schley volunteered his services. He set out from New York in April, 1884, and with him went the hopes of a nation. He had three ships, the flagship Thetis, the Alert and the Bear.

For his services in rescuing Greeley and six survivors Schley was awarded a gold watch and a vote of thanks by the Maryland legislature and a gold medal from the Massachusetts Humane society.

From 1884 to 1889 Schley was chief of the bureau of equipment, and from 1889 to 1892 he was in command of the Baltimore. Following that, he was a member of the board of inspection and survey and chairman of the lighthouse board.

When the war with Spain began, Schley was put in command of the "Flying Squadron," and to him was popularly given the credit of winning the battle of Santiago, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed.

The publication of a history of the war by Edgar Stanton Macley precipitated an official inquiry into the action at Santiago. Macley severely denounced Schley's conduct during and after the battle. An official court of inquiry heard testimony presented to uphold the rival claims of Schley and Admiral W. T. Sampson.

Cotton Crop Breaks Records.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The cotton crop of the growing season of 1911, which early in the year gave indications that it would be one of the largest in the history of the industry, will be approximately 13,868,337 bales of 500 pounds, or about 209,000 bales more than the record year of 1904. This was indicated by the final condition report of the department of agriculture.

CAN LANGFORD BEAT JOHNSON?

Fistiana Absorbed in Much
Mooted Question at Present.

CHAMPION'S BIG ADVANTAGE.

Title Holder Taller, Heavier and Has Longer Reach—Then, Again, a Good Little Man Cannot Beat a Good Big Man.

Can Sam Langford by any possible manner wrest the world's heavyweight title from Jack Johnson? This is the perplexing question that is worrying the fighting fraternities on both continents. The plain fact that these black men so far overshadow their rivals at present that they are the only gladiators fit to battle for the title forces the issue.

Sifting it down finer, can a good little man beat a good big man? History answers emphatically—no. Nevertheless in this particular case many close and smart students of the sport feel that precedent will be reversed.

All acknowledge that Jack Johnson is a great fighter, though skeptics claim that in beating Jeffries he licked only a shell of a great man. Every one who has seen Sam Langford at full speed admits willingly that he is a wonderful fighter. Whether he can upset tradition and cold calculation is the burning sport question.

Scanning the measurements of both men, figures favor Johnson greatly. His height gives him an advantage of five and three-quarter inches. When facing a smaller man Johnson has only to throw his body back and the smaller man suffers great disadvantage. Attacking a smaller rival, he towers over the latter and makes use of full advantage of his length. In agility he is no man's understudy, and for cleverness he stands supreme.

If he and Langford meet in the middle of a ring there will be a startling surprise for the spectators. Their first impression will be, "How long can the little man stay?" Cold facts make it appear suicidal for Langford to battle Johnson.

Should the pair clash Johnson's method of fighting would be the same as of old—feinting and then countering inside. Langford, fighting his regular battle, would keep bearing in, trying to land on the body. Can Johnson's cleverness, jabbing and chopping keep the miniature fighting machine away from that center of attack? That is a question. Langford, built as he is, with all his massive strength stored within a small space, could assimilate terrible punishment before he would stop tearing after that vital part of Johnson's frame.

Langford was outpointed by Joe Jeannette in New York recently. Jeannette's left hand jab slowed up Sammy considerably. This battle proved that any man with a good left jolt can worry Langford. Now, if Jeannette with a light stab could slow up Langford, what would a man like Johnson, who has a terrible jab, do to the Tar Baby? Then another thing—Langford is an easy man to reach with an uppercut. How could he keep away from Johnson's left and right hand head rockers? It was Johnson's left and right uppercuts that really beat Jeffries. The Johnson who met and defeated Jeffries would slow away Sammy Langford with his terrible left jab and heavy uppercuts.

Johnson is keenly disappointed because Carl Morris, the erstwhile white hope, was drubbed so soundly by the Pueblo fireman, Jim Flynn, in New York recently. It leaves the situation with regard to the heavyweight title practically unchanged and with no white man in sight who could hope to successfully cope with the champion.

Flynn, undoubtedly a good fighter, is no match for Johnson, as was proved by their fight in San Francisco on Nov. 2, 1907, when Johnson knocked out Flynn in eleven rounds. Competent judges who saw that battle are on record as saying that Johnson could have turned the trick in three rounds or even less had he so desired. Flynn is a good little man, but Johnson is a good big man, and that tells the story.

There is no man in the ring today who could hope to defeat Johnson if the negro is anything like as good as when he fought Tommy Burns and Jim Jeffries. There is today no real white hope.

Plums in Rice Border.

Cook rice in milk until tender and quite dry, adding a pinch of salt when it is half done. Make it rather sweet with powdered sugar and pour into a border mold to set. When ready to serve turn it out carefully and fill the center with very rich stewed plums. Pour a little of the sirup over the rice and heap whipped cream over the plums. The stones should be removed from the fruit and the kernels simmered ten minutes in a little thin sirup and then mixed with the fruit.

A MODERN HELEN

By EDWARD EMERSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

On the frontier of Holland many years ago was a little fort, about which clustered a number of farms. It was used by the Dutchmen to keep the French who lived across the border from coming over to possess themselves of the produce, consisting of butter, eggs, vegetables and especially the cheese, for which the Netherlands have always been famous. There was no regular military garrison, the fort being manned in case of necessity by the Dutch farmers. Those were more troublous times than these, and there was more fighting in a small way; therefore more lawlessness was to be expected near the border, where frequent incursions were made.

The cause of this particular stronghold becoming noted was not one of butter and eggs and cheese. At least these were not the bone of contention. A Dutch maiden had been surreptitiously wooed and won by a young Frenchman, and he had carried her within the lines of France, had married her and established her as the female head of his farm.

The Dutchmen regarded this as by far the greatest robbery their neighbors could inflict upon them. They would much rather have lost a hundred of their best cheeses than this fair daughter with her blue eyes and flaxen braids. She had had many lovers among the young Dutchmen, and they, formerly rivals, now became united in a common cause. One night a dozen of these disappointed wooers made a raid across the border, took the young wife prisoner and carried her into their own country.

When the Frenchmen heard of the outrage they gathered in groups, talking and gesticulating till they worked themselves into a warlike condition. The Dutchmen, hearing what they were doing and inferring that they would likely attempt to repossess the woman, shut her up in the fort and prepared to hold her against all comers. It did not matter to them that she wished to return to her husband. She had not been married for a long time, and even if all the forms usual on such occasions had been observed she would not have been given up to the hated French beyond the border.

In due time news came that a rescue party was being formed, and the Dutchmen began to make preparations to meet it. The fort was stocked with provisions and arms and ammunition and a regular garrison were put in. The object of contention being in the fort, the French marched straight against it and since they had no means of taking it by assault they formed a cordon about it for the purpose of besieging it by starvation.

Meanwhile the Dutch farmers who were not engaged in the quarrel continued to make cheeses and do their other accustomed work. They were shut off from the fort, and the fort was shut off from them. The garrison, having a good store of provisions for their maintenance, laughed at the Frenchmen who were besieging them. "Come on with your picks and your staffs and your scythes," they shouted in Dutch, "and take the fort if you can." But the Frenchmen didn't understand a word that was said. They simply sat around and smoked and drank wine and played games, waiting for the besieged to eat up all their provisions.

A long while passed, but the Dutch men showed no sign of surrender. The Frenchmen knew that by this time, though they might still have food, it must be stale. But since they would not give up the fight their position must be taken by stratagem. After much chattering and gesticulating the Frenchmen at last hit upon a plan which they proposed to put into execution, but they preferred to wait a little longer till their enemies had acquired a special relish for fresh eatables through a prolonged course of privation.

One morning when the Dutchmen awoke and were preparing their breakfast of state victuals they heard a clatter of tongues and looking over the ramparts, saw a number of women coming with baskets on their arms. They were too far off for the Dutchmen to hear what they said or in what language they spoke. When they came near the fort its commander hailed them and asked them where they were going. One of the women replied that they were taking butter and eggs and vegetables to the market to sell. When they came directly beneath the fort they displayed their produce to the hungry Dutchmen, who said they would gladly take their whole supply, but they must act quickly, for if the French enemies saw them they would prevent the sale.

So the women were introduced into the fort, and the Dutchmen started to shut the gates, but the women pulled weapons from under their skirts and drove them back. As soon as the fight commenced the Frenchmen, who were hidden behind a barn near by, rushed out, effected an entrance into the fort and captured it.

Thus as a hollow horse filled with armed men was introduced into Troy so did a number of Frenchmen disguised as women enter the Dutchmen's fort. Helen was restored to her husband, and together they began to raise children and country produce, producing an abundant supply of both every year.

A GLIMPSE OF YOURSELF.

Get it by Reading a Gossipy Letter
You Wrote Years Ago.

There is nothing more interesting than to come across unexpectedly an intimate and gossipy letter that one wrote oneself ten or fifteen years ago. In reading such a letter one is looking at oneself from the outside. The process is a good deal like looking out of the window and seeing oneself go past in the crowd. The strange part of the matter is that in reading such a document one is generally filled with a sort of pity for the fellow who wrote it. He seems to have been rather uncertain of himself. He groped for his facts and his ideas. Evidently he did not know much. He was merely an imperfect adoration of the admirable person who is now overlooking his correspondence, eh? That is the first impression. But presently one feels differently about it. Those half baked opinions may now have hardened into dogmas. We may now be cocksure of what we only surmised. That who is so hopelessly wrong as the cocksure man? If the person one is fifteen years ago could contemplate objectively the person one is now perhaps he would pity the purblind dogmatist more than we pity the groping experimentalist. —New York Mail.

It is probably just as well all around that up to the present time a wise Providence has withheld from man kind the secret of influencing or regulating the nature of sex. Human beings have about as they can look after as things are without this responsibility.

Near Forest Grove, in the Willamette valley in western Oregon, the wild deer that make their haunts in nearby mountain cover are said to be acquiring the prairie eating habit. The animals have grown so bold that they jump fences and pull the fruit from the trees.

WHY THE ATHLETICS THE GIANTS IN SHOULD DEFEAT THE WORLD'S SERIES

By TOMMY CLARK.
NOW that the National and American league pennant races are over all there is to figure on the 1911 baseball campaign is the outcome of the world's series. New York, it would seem, makes the Giants the favorites more because they represent New York than that their class warrants it. It is but natural for New Yorkers to figure the Giants invincible. Having won the National league gonfalon and humbled both Cubs and Pirates, New York is not able to see any other team.

But of course all followers of baseball do not share this belief. There is a team in Philadelphia over which a long, lean gentleman of quiet demeanor presides that also has a following. It may not have as many noisy adherents as its rival, nor are the claims for it as extravagant, but when these games are played it is apt to be very much in evidence.

Philadelphia Stronger Than Ever.
The Athletic team of 1911 is unquestionably the strongest ball club in the American league. The team is stronger than the Athletic champions of 1910. McInnis at first base is a vast improvement over Davis, who played the bag last year. He is a much faster man and a better hitter than his predecessor. Barry, the Athletic shortstop, has displayed improved form this year. Collins, the second baseman, and Baker, the third sacker, are two great ball players.

Collins is probably the most valuable player in the American league, with the exception of Ty Cobb. Mack's outfield consists of Lord, Oldring and Murphy. It is a better combination than the New York crew, which consists of Devore, Snodgrass, with Becker and Murray alternating in right field.

The Athletic infield has an edge on the Giants' quartet. Merkle and McInnis measure even up; Collins has it on Doyle in every way; Barry is a more seasoned and smarter shortstop than Fletcher; Herzog is a wonderful fast third baseman and probably holds Baker safe, but give me the latter for his long drives.

Myers will probably do all the catching for New York. Bresnahan caught every game for the Giants back in 1905. Myers is no Bresnahan behind the bat. He is a heavy hitter and a cool mechanical receiver, but not a quick thinker.

The Athletics have a corking good pair in Thomas and Lapp, as the Cubs and seven American league clubs will vouch for.

Now for a glance at the twirling corps of the two teams. The Giants have Mathewson, Marquard, Wiltse, Crandall and Ames. Matty is not as good as he was a few seasons ago. Still, he is one of the best twirlers in the country, but he cannot be expected to do all the pitching in the coming series. Marquard up until a short time ago was the man picked to down the Athletics; but, judging by his recent showing, he is not as good as he was earlier in the season. Wiltse has been ailing for some time, and so has Drucker. Crandall is a hard worker, but is not in the same class with Marquard or Mathewson.

The Athletics have three strong right hand pitchers in Bender, Combs and Morgan and two good southpaws in Plank and Krause. Mack thinks Plank will prove an insurmountable obstacle to the Giants in the world's series. Krause has not been very effective in the American league this year, but Mack is confident that the kid will make trouble for New York.

New York Weak Against Southpaws.
Another known weakness of the New York team is its inability to hit left hand pitchers. McGraw has a bunch of left hand hitters. Devore, Becker and Doyle are left hand clouters. Saltee, Rucker and other good southpaws have proved the greatest obstacles in the Giants' progress pennantward.

There can be no denying that the Giants will tackle a sturdier opponent than any they have met in the National league this season when they stack up against the Athletics. Besides having a stone wall infield and a powerful pitching staff, the team has a number of heavy hitters. Barry is the only regular of the team who is not batting over the 200 mark. When Lapp and Combs are the battery, Mack can send eight 300 clubbers against his opponents.

There is another point of advantage the Athletics have over the Giants, and that is possibly a generally higher standard of baseball intelligence. McGraw's men are not rated as intellectual giants and have given some very bad exhibitions on occasions when the manager has been absent from the side lines.

They have speed, plenty of good hitting strength and two good pitchers, though Marquard in a big series is, of course, an experiment. Mathewson will pitch good ball whether he wins or loses. He has brains and is thoroughly game and cool. Wiltse, the Giants' southpaw, is one of the best in the game, but has not been in the best of shape of late. He will not be used in the series unless in case of an emergency.

One of the questions most debated by the experts is the extent to which

Older may be kept sweet a long time by taking the juice as it comes from the press, gradually heating it to a temperature of about 180 degrees F. holding it there for ten minutes and bottling at once in clean, sterilized, air tight bottles.

The average American hen lays eighty eggs a year, when if given proper care she should produce 150 eggs. That this second estimate is modest is shown in the fact that individual hens of certain breeds have laid as high as 200 eggs in a year.

the Giants will continue their base running when they meet the Athletics. There is an interesting angle to the pathwork of this team which has been brought to view by claims of some National leaguers that the New York's base running is overrated. The scores and averages of course show that they have run more sacks than any other club in the country.

But the contention is that they have run the bases foolishly at times, stealing third with two down and making all sorts of moves that are frowned on by the orthodox and not calculated in the ordinary course of events to gain anything in the way of runs if opponents do not follow the steals with errors.

In this contention it is noteworthy that with all of its stolen bases the New York team has not scored nearly as many runs as Pittsburgh this season. The Giants have stolen over two and one-half times as many bags as the Pirates, but the latter club has chased more runners all the way round. This would serve to back the assertion made by those who refuse to give the Giants all that is claimed for their base running. The argument is that it is a waste of effort and unproductive.

If so it may not gain so much in the coming series. Ira Thomas is a wise catcher, who will profit by any false moves, and he will be catching a couple of crafty pitchers, who may let a few men on and who will watch those who do get there. Under Mack Thomas has developed into one of the best catchers and throwers in the country. His accurate pegging last fall prevented the Cub runners from pilfering many sacks.

Mack will send into the world's series the best balanced club in either league. It is not showy, but it is a consistent, evenly playing outfit.

Athletics Ought to Win.

After going over the real conditions of the two teams an unbiased person cannot help but select the Athletics as winners of the series. They seem to have everything in their favor. The team has an edge in the backstopping department and pitching; its infield collectively is stronger, and the outfield is better than that of the Giants. They have the best batting team and the advantage of having a chance to rest up and then tackle the all stars to tune themselves up for the world's series.

To be pitched against a high class ball team such as the all stars and to be forced to bat against pitchers like Johnson, Walsh, Ford and White have furnished the greatest kind of practice, as after this sort of experience pitchers of the ordinary type look decidedly easy.

It was so with the Athletics when they faced the Cubs last year. They had been batting against Walsh and Johnson for nearly a week, and when they tackled the Cubs their pitchers did not seem to have enough to fool them, the result being that the Athletics did some very hard and timely hitting in that series.

Of course all this may sound entirely one sided to many fans, and one might think that the Giants' chances of winning were hopeless. But such is not the case, although all the dope favors the Athletics. Baseball is the most uncertain of all sports. Oftentimes clubs that appear very weak on paper come through and wallop the daylight out of a championship team.

It is argued that McGraw is a great baseball general. Granted. But is there any one better qualified to outline a defense or attack than Cornelius McGillicuddy? There is no trick of the game, no science of the sport, that Mack is not familiar with. Many of the plays and strategic moves are of his invention, and if it comes down to a battle in which heads are to count Mack will not finish second to McGraw.

The Giants must use offhand aggressive methods, while the Athletics will work every man to the limit and get more runs out of hits they make than the Giants, although the New York men will probably score the greater number of total bases. The Giants are not as well drilled as the Athletics, but the chances are that their style of play will please the fans.

Comparison of Old and New Teams.

The Giants of 1905 were a scrappy aggregation. They were cocky from the start of the season until the end. It was a case of bring along your team and we'll trim 'em. Compare Bresnahan, Roverman, catchers; Matty, McGillicuddy, pitchers; McGinn, Gilbert, Dahlen and Devlin; infielders; Donlin, Seymour and Mortis with the team of today and you will find it more powerful in every way.

For the past month the Giants have been playing beyond their speed and naturally are keyed up to a high pitch. When the men tackle Philadelphia they will be playing on the nerves.

On the other hand, the Athletics of today are stronger than the team of 1905, which was composed of Schreck, Engest and Powers, catchers; Bender, Plank, Conkley, pitchers; Davis, Murphy, Monte Cross and Lave Cross, infielders; Lord, Seybold and Hartset, outer gardeners.

Creating an Impression.

"Is he really a great scientist?" "I have my doubts," replied Miss Cayenne. "I suspect he is one of the scientists who get their reputations by sitting down to a dinner table and saying chloride of sodium instead of salt."—Washington Star.

Her Choice.

"I believe there's good people in all denominations." Mrs. Lapaling said, "but as for myself I always go to one of the orchard or churches."—Chicago Tribune.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Helen Catherine Brown who departed this life September 25, 1911, aged one year and six days.

Darling Helen thou has left us,
Much we miss thy smiling face:
Up in heaven our blue eyed angel
Has found with Jesus a resting place.
Dearest Helen how we loved you,
Yet God loved you more,
That he took you from this world of sin—
Over to that celestial shore.

We think we hear dear Helen call,
"Papa, mamma, loved ones, all,
Come up to me, come up to me,
For I no more can come to thee."
"Papa, mamma, do not weep,
Your tears are all in vain:
He let me live a while with you,
He wants me back again.

Our dear little angel in Heaven:
Oh how we miss thy sweet smile;
It is lonely, so lonely without you—
Yet God will comfort us all the while.
By Father and Mother.

Teachers' Rally

The first educational rally for the year will be held at Arendtsville, Friday evening and Saturday, October 13 and 14.

The evening session is being planned particularly for the citizens and teachers of Arendtsville and adjacent districts.

The Saturday sessions are more particularly for all the teachers of the county who can plan to attend. All teachers in attendance at the Saturday sessions will be entertained in the homes of the residents of the town.

Superintendent L. E. McGinnis, of Steelton, and Professor J. K. Stewart, of Shippensburg, have been engaged as speakers.

Teachers, if we will, we can make this the best ever.

The inspiration and direction warranted by the rally will vouchsafe a correct attitude toward the work of the profession.

Teachers will please notify Prof. Roy D. Knoose, of Arendtsville, of their intention to be in attendance.

H. MILTON ROTH,
County Superintendent.

Two Clever Statesmen.

One crisis in Lord Palmerston's life illustrates the absolute good humor which may prevail even when political enmity is at its worst. Lord Derby had made an attack upon him in the upper house with such energy and eloquence that the odds against him seemed overwhelming. But he defended himself and his policy from the dusk of one day to the dawn of another with such tact, dexterity and force of appeal to the national sense of honor that he was acquitted of all blame by a majority of four.

Next day in passing through the corridor leading from an ante-room to the upper house one swing door opened to his hand and at the same moment the other to that of Lord Derby. They were opponents, but they were also manly and sweet natured men. They smiled.

"I was just thinking," said Palmerston, "what a clever fellow he was who so neatly put me in a hole!"

"Ah," was the rejoinder, "but nothing like the cleverness of the fellow who got you out of it!"

Winning a Bet.

Lord Marcus Lancelotti is, like all the Waterford family, full of high spirits. There is but one person entitled to drive down Rotten row—the Duke of St. Albans—and it is doubtful if ever he cares to exercise the privilege. But Lord Marcus bet he would do it in broad daylight and without interference. The wager was accepted and the time fixed for the adventure about noon. All Lord Marcus' friends came trooping along to see him, but time went on, and nothing could be seen of the sportsman.

By and by a watering cart came along, driven by the usual waterman in a smock. As the cart passed along leisurely the driver smiled, and on closer observation Lord Marcus' friends recognized the winner of the wager.—London Sketch.

A Window Washer's View.

A window washer was called upon one day to clean the windows of a business concern on the nineteenth floor of a skyscraper in lower Broadway. The cleaner paused in wonderment as he passed through the lines of typewriter operators as they cycled off their correspondence and went to the window and fastened the two straps dangling from his belt to hooks at the side of the window frame. He cast another surprised glance at the men operating the typewriters, and as he swung outward over the dizzy height, his weight sustained by the slender straps, he muttered:

"It's mighty odd how some people do make their living in this world anyway!" —New York Herald.
